PREFACE.

THE Publishers present this issue of the Jersey City and Hoboken Directory with a confidence that it is as perfect a compendium of resident names and their local habitations and occupations as human industry, intelligence and system can make it.

Complaint having been made that many names were omitted in last year's issue, a duplicate canvass was made this year, and every name of males over twenty-one years of age, every widow and householder, or person engaged in any business, was endeavored to be had and incorporated in this book. If names are omitted the fault is not with the publishers. Some persons fearful of taxes, jury duty, the Sheriff or Constable, refuse to give their names. Yet, whenever it is possible to procure such, we take extra pains to accomplish it. Many such, to their surprise, will find their names in this Directory.

Our book is for the public, and not published to gratify the whim of any individual.

With this issue we also publish an accurate street guide of the Cities of Jersey City and Hoboken, compiled from actual canvass and official maps, alphabetically arranged upon a system of our own. Accompanying it is a new, complete and perfect map of the consolidated City on such a scale as will not blind the eyes of the reader to locate the names of the streets.

The appendix will be found full and complete.

As an instance of the faithful canvass, and also as an index of the growth of Jersey City and Hoboken, we give the number of individual names, excluding all firms and other matter, as follows :

1876-'77	31,035
1877-'78	35,690
Increase	4,655

By the rule adopted in New York and other cities in ascertaining population, the number of names is multiplied by five. This would give the population of the two cities in 1876-'77 as 155,175 ; 1877-'78, 178,450 ; increase in one year, 23,275. We doubt if any city in the Union can show the same degree of progress.

With these desultory remarks, we submit the Jersey City and Hoboken Directory to any criticism, friendly or otherwise.
